This workshop will help open your eyes to new methods of painting that will add excitement and drama to your paintings. Sean is an experienced Plein Air painter. Students of all experience levels will feel at home in this hands-on exploration of age-old traditional oil, water-soluble oils, pastel or acrylic. Using pictures, original art work and demonstrations, Sean will lead the class through several of his favorite combinations of sketching and underpainting mediums on a variety of supports. If weather permits, the class may spend part of the time outdoors.

Award winning artist Sean Dye is a multimedia artist who received his MFA from Pratt Institute in Brooklyn, NY. He teaches painting at the University of Vermont and conducts popular workshops across the country in pastel, oil, water-soluble oils and acrylic.

His paintings have been exhibited widely and are in numerous private and corporate collections throughout North America. He has been published in The Artists Magazine, International Artists Magazine, Pastel Artist International and the Pastel Journal.

Sean is a member of the Pastel Society of America, the Degas Pastel Society and the Sierra Pastel Society. He is former president and founder of the Vermont Pastel Society and has judged several important exhibitions.

Sean is the author of Painting with Water Soluble Oils and The Mixed-Media Sourcebook. In 2005 many of his paintings appeared in Caroline Jasper's book, Powercolor as well as North Light's Painting the Elements: Weather Effects in Oil, Acrylic and Watercolor. Sean's first DVD, Palette Knife Landscape was released in 2005 and his latest DVD, Sean Dye's Easy Steps to Oil Painting was released in 2009.
